Your Senior Chapter B Directors Tom & Merrilee Peck

April is here and you know what April brings? The winter season comes along, and the Goldwing is put away due to cooler months, we don't think much about riding. Suddenly, the time changes back to save some daylight and spring is in the air. You find out how many things you forgot about and are now trying to get caught up. All the repair shops are booked up and the room you thought would be available is all booked up. Time has come to look over your calendar and get a few things marked down and do some planning to make sure you don't forget something. Spring Fling is just around the corner and considering the effects of the pandemic on all aspects of our life sure makes it a strange time. I know Stanley and Mark have worked up what sounds like a fun Skit for the rally. Plans are going on now so make sure you join us and let Stanley know you would like to be included. Send in your ideas for rides to Wally and copy Stanley and myself so it can be discussed and put on the schedule. Already we have some trips planned as Goldwing rallies are always a good excuse to RIDE somewhere. There are always events at the rallies planned around our love of riding our Goldwings. Spring Fling is always well attended by out of state Goldwingers, many of them friends we have met at their rallies over the years. Always fun to renew old friendships and that is what it's all about. Looking forward to our trip to the Louisiana District rally and would like to thank Stanley & Patty once again for filling in with the chapter duties in my absence. Hopefully some chapters come for a visit to try to capture the Tennessee Traveling plaque, make sure to welcome everyone to our family gathering on April 5th. We will be thinking about you while we soak up some sun in Louisiana and look forward to seeing you at Spring Fling soon after.

With bright skies and warm weather, it's easy to get that itch to get out and ride but first we need to be making sure our maintenance stuff is done, nothing worse than planning a nice ride then the bike is not ready to go. I just got through getting my oil, filter and anti-freeze to get mine ready for what will be hopefully a long riding season. Remember Spring Fling is right around the corner to help us kick off the season with a fun gathering. Spring and fall motorcycle riding is the best in my opinion, the before and after the heat of summer. Hopefully we have had some people send more rides in to Wally and he is getting the schedule filled up, if not we all need to start coming up with some suggestions and let's get this season rolling. One of the great things about being in a Chapter is the added benefit of having great friends to share the journey with and we are really fortunate to have the people we have in our Chapter and it is really sad when we lose a part of that Family. Unfortunately we lost a great one a couple of weeks ago. Chuck Talley, Chuck was a fine a man as you would ever meet, in fact he is the first person I met when I came to my first Chapter B meeting and like everyone else you immediately knew you liked him, he always had a smile on his face and a kind word in his heart and we were really blessed that Chuck and Pat chose Chapter B to be a part of. Since being in Chapter B I have seen us lose some really great people and great members and like all of you I miss every one of them but I am really proud of the fact that I got to know them, and most of all, I was able to call them friends. They are missed and our lives are better for having known them.

Dead Red Lights

If you have been riding on two wheels for any length of time you have probably come across this scenario. You pull up to a red light at a non-timed traffic light intersection on your motorcycle. You wait and wait and wait but you don't get a green light for your lane. This can be especially frustrating when you are in a turning lane and the other traffic beside you gets a green light to go straight but you never get your protected green turn arrow! This can cause you to get cranky and we just can't have that now can we? Well, there's hope.

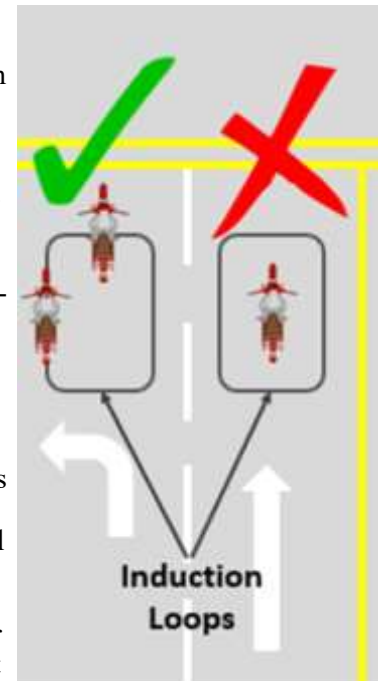

Most major roadway intersections in America, and especially intersections with turning lanes, are equipped with some type of traffic light sensor that detects a vehicle in the lane which in turn will trigger a message to the traffic light control box (usually in the ground near the light pole) to cycle the traffic light to change. The most common type of traffic light triggers are induction loops. These induction loops contain electrical wires that are typically embedded about 2-4 inches below the surface of the asphalt and follow some type of a loop pattern. Although they are typically in a rectangular pattern they can also be installed in triangular or round patterns. You can identify them by the outline in the pavement where grooves were cut to insert the electrical lines. Although there are other types of traffic light trigger such as active and passive infrared, microwave and video triggers, these types don't typically pose a problem for a motorcycle because they are triggered by detecting objects in the lane and motorcycles easily trigger them. The induction loops are typically the biggest challenge for both motorcyclists and bicyclists alike.

The basic concept of the induction loop is that a small amount of electrical current is sent through the wire loop imbedded inside the pavement. This electrical current puts off a magnetic field that becomes interrupted when metal passes over the wire (typically the metal from a car). This interruption of the magnetic field sends a signal to the control box telling it a vehicle is there and that initiates the change in traffic signal.

Although cars have no problem triggering the induction loops due to their size (larger mass of metal), motorcycles are often not big enough to trigger them. There are right and wrong ways to attempt to trigger these loops with your Gold Wing. The most successful method is to pull your motorcycle directly overtop of one of the lines in the pavement that contain the wires (see the graphic). The wrong way is to position your bike in the middle. Although you may have triggered the light when you rode over the front part of the loop, you will have a better chance triggering it if you stop your bike directly over one of the lines.

One last thing. The sensitivity of these induction loops is adjustable. You may come across one with a setting that is not sensitive enough for your Gold Wing to trigger it, even if you put your bike in the correct position. To deal with this many states have 'Dead Red' laws that allow a motorcyclist to treat a non-triggering traffic light like a stop sign after realizing the traffic signal is not triggered. There are 15 states with this law with Tennessee being one of them (enacted in 2003). Each state's law differs somewhat. In Tennessee you can proceed only after you have determined your motorcycle did not trigger the traffic signal, however be careful. This law ONLY applies to intersections that have traffic lights with induction loops or another type of sensor. If you proceed through an intersection without a non-induction loop you can be fined...and that would make you more grumpy!

Ride safe and ride smart!

Scott

Goldwing rear differential gear oil change. With it's is a two wheel or trike they both have a rear differential that needs serviced. Normal driving requirements are more reasonable: 1st change around 15k miles, and then about every 30k miles after that. That said, if you do towing a lot, perhaps it's better to find a reasonably priced mechanic or learn how to do it yourself. With this said you need to make sure to install the proper gear oil in them if it's a 2 wheel it will use Honda 08208-0080 Pro Shaft Drive Oil and if it's a trike you need to contact manufacture of trike kit or look in your trike manual for the proper gear oil and recommended service intervals.

On a Can-am Spyder it uses a drive belt instead of rear differential this has been used by several manufactures over the years and has proven to be dependable very low maintance but does need periodic adjustments

Over the years Chapter B has chosen the Lifestyle program as not only a great fund raiser but provides a good excuse to get together for a ride. You all know how much fun it is to enjoy a new place to eat in our area. With the pandemic we experienced last year it pretty much shut down our Restaurant Rating activities. Most locations offer a buy one and get one free so one card for each couple works best, individuals always get 1/2 off a menu item. The pocket saver costs $20 and the chapter keeps $6 of this for their favorite fund raising effort. The more the merrier as we schedule dinner rides using our Lifestyle cards, hope you all participate again this year.

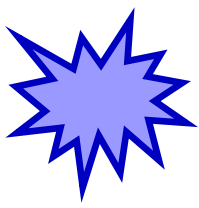

Call Wally and let him know your next suggestion for our next night out using our Lifestyle cards
